WOOD HIGH SCHOOL

My Old Country Schoolhouse.

That dear old country schoolhouse,
Inland with pines beside it;
Some peach trees, with unfruitful boughs,
And a well, with weeds to hide it,
No flowers or only such as rise
Self sown,—poor things,—which all despise.

Dear old country schoolhouse, can I forget
The least of thy sweet trifles,
The window-vines that clamber yet,
Whose blooms the bee's still rifles,
The roadside berries a luscious red,
And in the wood sweet sounds from o'erhead.

Oh! that old schoolhouse way out from town
With the wind a seaward blowing,
With the end of the garden stretching down
To where the tide is flowing,
And close by with sails all furled,
Lie ships that go about the world.

I think of those sweet afternoons—when I
Would sit an listen to the rippling sea,
Or the breezes in the reeds that sigh,
With insects chirping shrill and dry;
And how I loved to watch this same blue sky
And think of the day, when I'd come back here to die.

WOOD HIGH SCHOOL

DEDICATION

ON December 11, 1935, the ranks of the Windfall High School were broken by the death of our classmate, Catherine Findling. She was an earnest and faithful worker in the school and she is sincerely missed by her classmates and friends.

So we, the Class of '38, dedicate this issue of the Anemone to the memory of our classmate and friend, Catherine Findling.

PURPOSE of EDUCATION

IN these days of educational efficiency there is one warning above all others that should be sounded. It is that we keep the spiritual emphasis in the whole process. The Church believes in a basic spiritual purpose underlying the universe, mankind and all. To ignore this underlying truth means only confusion, with ultimate wreck and ruin. You do not live in a universe that is made for the success of truth.

None of you will doubt that today we outstrip all former periods as far as educational facilities, methods and achievements are concerned. There is almost a universal desire for an education today. But why educate? What is the acid test of the value of an education? Is it merely to develop one's intellect and to sharpen his wits so that he may outstrip his fellows in the mad race of competition? Is it to make better gas, better guns, better bombs in order to kill more people with less trouble? We must educate so that the end will be preservation and not destruction. Millions out of employment, starving in the midst of plenty, is a humiliating commentary on the intelligence of our day. Must we confess that we belong to a race that cannot take care of itself—that cannot feed itself—in the presence of our enlightenment?

Youth, it is your job; you must teach us how to live together if we are to live at all. You do not want to fight, you want to live and that is why I am writing as I do. Through the eyes of faith we can see the hand of a God of Love guiding man through the density of the maze. We must work confidently with our Creator to build a better world. With courage and vision inspired by our great leader, we can say, "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work." Without this vision your soul is lost beneath the pressure of mechanized life.

"Though I adore the Creator, assisted by the splendor of ancient cathedral windows, and the lofty spaces of Gothic arches, and the moving cadences of inspired music, and have not a Love that manifests itself in work, my worship is but dust and ashes."

Rev. J. Thomas Frost
Minister Methodist Episcopal Church

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Carl Retherford, the trustee, is one of the essential cogs in the school organization. He has cooperated in all school activities and has given his kind attention to the administration of school affairs. He has always contributed his presence to all of the athletic events and has done his part toward keeping up the school spirit.

Mr. Victor Owens, our principal and friend, has led us unceasingly for the past few years, always thinking of the good of the school, first. He has endeavored to lead us to higher levels and, by his examples, has tried to make us better citizens of the future. His sole aim is to make this, our school, a bigger and better school.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

TO DAY we are seniors at W. H. S. In a few days we shall be graduated from school life into Life's School.

In September, 1934, a group of fifty-nine verdant freshmen entered the Windfall High School. This noteworthy class was guided that year by Miss Leisure, sponsor; president, Robert Coffin; vice president, Robert Osborne; and secretary-treasurer, Maxine Hinds.

To start our new adventure in the right way, we were initiated into the high school ranks as full fledged freshmen.

During this year, we had a class party and went to the Circus at Peru.

In the fall of 1935, there were fifty-four to continue their high school career. During this year, Mr. Scott was sponsor of the class with the following officers: president, Virginia Berry; vice president, Maxine Hinds; secretary-treasurer, Marjory Tolle.

This eager class of sophomores found that there was yet plenty to learn. Geometry and Latin seemed to be the main stumbling blocks.

The class was well represented in basketball and band.

During the year we lost, through death, a friendly companion, Catherine Findling, who is sadly missed by her classmates.

In 1936, forty-three juniors enrolled. To help us through this difficult year, the following officers were chosen: president, Robert Osborne; vice president, Georgetta Jones; secretary-treasurer, Emily Conkling; and Miss Darrow was chosen sponsor.

At the Hallowe'en Festival, we received the prize for a "Crazy House."

The hilarious comedy, "Smile, Rodney, Smile," coached by Miss Jeanette Leisure, was presented.

The "high-light" of the year was the Junior-Senior Banquet at the Lyric Theater and Guaranty De Luxe.

In 1937, thirty-five seniors returned to finish the road to graduation. All were working with all their might (?) to get enough credits.

The officers of 1936 had fulfilled their duties satisfactorily so they were again chosen with Miss Hall as sponsor.

To secure funds to publish an annual, we sponsored a Hallowe'en Festival.

The annual staff was chosen: Cora Ann Shawhan, editor-in-chief; Mary Hughes, assistant editor-in-chief; Georgetta Jones, business manager; and Mildred Fernung, assistant business manager.

The seniors presented their play, "For Pete's Sake", March 16 and 17. This comedy was coached by Miss Mitchell. The audience was a mirthquake of laughter during the entire performance.

The class and friends were guests of the juniors at the Junior-Senior Reception.

Now that we are seniors, we can readily see the mistakes we have made during our high school career. We hope that you, as underclassmen, will profit by our mistakes. After four years of hard work, we feel that we are ready to take our place in the "Wheel of Life."

COOPERATION

A grain of sand, once said to me:
 "What can I do to stop the sea?"
The hills and mountains then replied,
 "We'll tell you how to stop the tide."

One grain of sand can not do much
 But, if some other grains you'll touch,
And hold together, side by side,
 We'll back you up to stop the tide."

The sea so furious anger given,
 Against the shore with force was driven,
But, her proud waves were checked by sands,
 When backed by hills and mountain lands.

SITTING around the fire in the grass hut of Naba Too, chief of an ancient tribe in Southern Africa, my fellow missionaries and I, knowing that the chief had a magic crystal, decided to look into the future. The chief, a feeble old man of ninety, ordered his magic crystal placed before him. Then saying the magic words, and going through the queer maneuvers, that are customary with all magicians, he soon had the years flying swiftly by. As the years neared 1960 they began to slow down, until at 1965 they had completely stopped. Asking us what we wished to see, we replied in a chorus, "Our Senior Class of 1938." Then ordering us to be quiet, he fell into a trance which seemed to envelope the whole of us.

The first thing we see is a large old building. Looking closer, it proves to be old W. H. S. Emerging from the door, we see a familiar figure. It is Anna Mae Ressler, now teacher of the Commercial Department. As she passes through the door, she presses a button which brings a small car to her. Stepping into the car, she disappears from sight.

Next we look in upon Chicago. Mary Hughes is living in a large apartment house in Chicago. She is on the twentieth floor, where with her many pets she is well contented.

Visiting the Municipal airport, we are surprised to see Winona Weismiller as the owner. She is said to be the greatest flyer since the death of Amelia Earhart.

C L A S S ■ P

Back in Indiana, we find Marjorie McCaskey, who with her husband and twelve children, is living on a farm near the city of Shelbyville.

Going to Hollywood, we find Donald West, America's chief comedian since the death of Charlie Chaplin.

Lindsay Silcox is a "Blues Singer" in Hollywood's Trocadero.

Hopping from Hollywood to Washington we find: Senator Leonard E. Nelson, as senator from Indiana, and who else should be president but our one and only Paul Hoppers. Since they are from W. H. S., they have made the school one of the biggest and best in the United States.

Leaving Washington we again enter Indiana. It seems that some of the "W. H. S. ers" just won't leave their native state. In Hobbs, Indiana, we are astounded when we see Loretta Hobbs standing on a street corner in full uniform. Since no men are allowed in Hobbs, Loretta is chief of police there. Attendants under her are Juanita Doggett, Madeline Stack and many others unknown to us.

Traveling on to Windfall we come upon a group of feminine mourners. Upon investigating we find that they are about to attend the funeral of Bob Osborne, a famous lawyer who was soon to be appointed Chief Justice. He was killed while racing to defend the former Lucile Nelson in a spectacular divorce suit.

Wayne Langley and Arthur Clouser are farmers near Windfall. Since their farms are adjoining, they have quite a few disputes over the legal rights and wrongs of their respective farms. It is said that there might be a murder if Arthur doesn't keep his hogs out of Wayne's prize corn.

Maxine Hinds and Virginia White are world renowned, because of the many schools of Etiquette that they have established throughout the world.

Glenn Ertel, Mary Alice Blessing, Mildred Fernung, and Paul Matchette are vagabonds. They travel to all parts of the world giving plays to earn a living. Their present play is "Life in 2000".

Emily Conkling is still single and is at present in Chicago where she is the manager of a new business, "Special Stenographic Work." Emily is also playing the piano for a children's institution.

Mary Kennedy and Cora Ann Shawhan are also in Europe. They each own their private newspapers. It seems that each have a thriving business.

Going to Europe we find Marjory Tolle traveling from place to place as a debater for the different schools. She has been awarded a medal for debating.

Marjorie Rarey, like the Baltimore bells, has gone to hunt her prince charming. Perhaps some day she may be a princess also.

R O P H E C Y

In Australia we find James Alley with his automobile factory. We cannot tell what kind of car he makes because it looks so much like a rocket. But—this is 1965.

We follow Armetha Smith and Martha Leavell to China, where they are instructing Chinese girls how to choose their beaus. It is said that their business is more thriving than that of Dorothy Dix.

With a whirring sound we see that the crystal has started turning backward at a tremendous speed. As it nears the year of 1938 it starts slowing down and stops before a group of faces. To our surprise it is the graduating class. We look closely and see all the faces. Even ours! We are mystified, but are soon made to realize that it is a large picture dedicated to the school of W. H. S. by Viola Smith, a famous photographer.

Then with a sigh of dismay we look at the chief who is writhing and groaning, which means that he is coming out of his trance, and that we have once again seen all of our high school friends. Tomorrow we must again prepare to tramp through the dense jungle to teach Christianity to the savages.

WE, the dignified, intellectual and ambitious members of the Senior Class, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight, upon our departure from the Wood High School, Tipton County, State of Indiana, in these United States of America, considering the needs of the inferior classes, do make public and declare this to be our last will and testament as follows, viz:

To the Faculty we bequeath the right to set us seniors as an example to keep all other classes from being so intelligent and mannerly.

We, the Seniors, bequeath to Mr. Owens eight good, honest, and studious office girls, one for each period of the day.

To Miss Hall, we bequeath a bookkeeping class that will work quietly and have more confidence in itself.

Nothing better would suit Mr. Scott than a Physics class that takes nothing but physics so as to make A's.

To Miss Mitchell, we bequeath an assembly in which the students will give her a good reason for giving them demerit marks, for there has been a rumor that the senior girls are objecting.

Mr. Reid has always wanted a state basket ball team, so we give to him Windfall's quality and not quantity.

To Miss Downs we give just another cook book, to tame down those wild freshmen girls.

We bequeath to Mr. Ragains a band that will be able to play the school song without help.

S E N I O R ■ C

To Miss Leisure, we bequeath a little more soberness when she calls down some mischievous junior in English class.

We bequeath to Mr. Hinds a health class that will have the ability to find out when the tests are going to be so as to be prepared.

James Alley wills his athletic skill to Edward Jack.

Mary Alice Blessing bequeaths her winning ways and charming personality to Betty Leavell.

Deloris Bolinger wills the young chap from Tipton to anyone who wants him.

Arthur Clouser wills his changeable mind to Floyd Vanness.

Robert Coffin bequeaths his ability to grow just a small degree each year to Frank Miller.

Emily Conkling has decided to be kind enough to will her typing ability to Wilbur Legg.

Juanita Doggett bequeaths her dark hair to Iva Stevenson to start a fast growing romance.

Glenn Ertel bequeaths his ability as an artist to Charles Tolle.

Mildred Fernung bequeaths some of her hair to Mr. Scott to prevent him from buying a wig before he reaches the ripe old age of 60.

Maxine Hinds bequeaths to Dick Clem her high scholastic record.

Loretta Hobbs bequeaths some of her calory count to Jean Walsh.
Paul Hoppes bequeaths his general business grades to Don Fisher.
Mary Hughes wills her common sense about boys to Virginia Heater.

Georgetta Jones bequeaths anything but "My Fred" to anybody.

Mary Kennedy bequeaths her ambition to become a stenographer to Betty Lou Mitchell.

Wayne Langley wills a small portion of his bashfulness to Wayne Meyer.

Martha Leavell bequeaths part of her winning ways with the boys from Prairie and Sharpsville to Olivie Straley.

Paul Matchette will gladly will his quick temper to John Hobbs.

Marjorie McCaskey wills her perfect attendance record through high school to any freshman who thinks he will be able to carry it through.

Gerald McClish wills his "Big Yarns" to Ned Kemper, whose supply seems to be running low.

Leonard Nelson bequeaths his dignified manners to Wayne Doan.

Lucile Nelson wills her quiet disposition to Imogene Zehner.

Robert Osborne bequeaths his ability to love and lose without too much heartache to Thomas Springer.

Marjorie Rarey wills her kindness to Wilma Havens.

Anna Mae Ressler bequeaths her business ability to Gladys Clem.

Cora Ann Shawhan bequeaths her ability as editor-in-chief to some prospective junior.

Lindsay Silcox bequeaths his daring bravado to the junior that needs it most.

Armetha Smith bequeaths her "heart-crushing" ways to Wilma Seal.

Viola Smith bequeaths her ability to make high scores in book-keeping to any student who thinks he will need it.

Madeline Stack bequeaths her sophistication to Juanita Engleman.

Marjory Tolle bequeaths her jumbled ideas to anyone who can fit them together acceptably.

Winona Weismiller bequeaths her position as a member of the Student Council to Mary Hook.

Wanetta Weismiller bequeaths her health grades to Sara Miner who may need them next year.

Donald West bequeaths his strong voice to Kenneth Cheever so Mr. Hinds won't strain his ears in health class.

Virginia White wills her ability to play a clarinet to Naomi Meyncke.

Marjorie McCaskey

Marjorie Rarey.

Success will come if we but try
To make our lives worthwhile,
Though it be steep we strive to keep
The straight but narrow aisle.

We can not take just anything
And make it glisten bright,
For a certain task is given each,
That he alone can do just right.

There is no lovelier sight to see
Than a heart once gripped with
Despair and grief,
Soaring to heights of greatest relief.

So we must make success our goal
To achieve whatever we try,
And in each insignificant way
We keep our morals high.

Peggy Mitchell

IN the fall of nineteen hundred thirty-five, fifty-nine members of our class gathered in the assembly of Windfall High School to become the new freshman class.

A few weeks later we met to choose our sponsor and class officers, and also to become better acquainted with the great number of new members. Miss Mary Leisure was readily selected sponsor. After much consideration, we elected the officers as follows: Floyd Vanness, president; Wilbur Legg, vice president; and Maurice Fisher, secretary-treasurer.

Our first "get-together" was in October at the Freshman Initiation. Here were properly initiated and then served delicious refreshments. On Hallowe'en, as was customary, the seniors sponsored a Hallowe'en Carnival. Through the guidance of our sponsor and the aid of each member of the class, we succeeded in winning first prize for our side show, "The Chamber of Horrors."

Suddenly a dark cloud appeared over our happiness—the untimely death of our classmate, Maurice Fisher. Wayne Meyer then took over the position of secretary-treasurer.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

This ended our school year with each member promising to be present next year.

We entered the following September as dignified sophomores. Not all of our former members were present, but our class still had more members than most classes.

Very early we selected our class officers and sponsor. Mr. Scott was elected sponsor; Robert Eastman, president; Wilma Seal, vice-president; and Wilbur Legg, secretary-treasurer.

Our first school event was the Hallowe'en Carnival in which we were awarded second prize. Our last semester closed with a very joyous theater party. Thus our school year ended.

We entered as juniors in September and since our responsibilities were so much greater, we wasted no time in electing Miss Jeanette Leisure as our sponsor; Ray Spitzmesser, president; Peggy Mitchell, vice president; and Wilbur Legg, secretary-treasurer.

During October, we won first prize on our show, "Sultan's Palace", at the Hallowe'en Carnival. In November, we bought class pins, rings, and sweaters. We also had great success with our class play, "The Panther's Claw", with Miss Leisure as our capable director.

Beginning the second semester of our junior year, we were deprived of three members of our class, our president, Ray Spitzmesser, being one of these. Peggy Mitchell, being vice-president, took over the presidency.

We have begun preparations for the Junior-Senior Reception which is the greatest event of the year. Through the determination and cooperation of each member, we hope to close our junior year with a most successful and joyous Junior-Senior Reception.

A RETROSPECT

When present walls have crumbled,
And to-day belongs to the past;
When youth has joined the ancients,
In memory our school will last.

When fame and high ambitions
Have been old in sackcloth and tears,
When dust has touched the glories,
We'll think of the yester-years.

In fancy will climb the stairways
And walk through lonesome halls
With only a dying echo
In answer to our calls.

The joys of youth will have blended
With the cares of each passing day,
But our hearts need not be saddened
If we've fought a good fight to-day.

SOPHOMORES

FIRST ROW: R. Kane, L. Lacy, R. Bourff, C. Reid, M. Marshall, G. Clem, M. Hook, J. Engleman, J. Doggett, F. Miller.

SECOND ROW: D. Fergenson, M. Alley, S. Warner, M. Bougger, R. Huston, F. DeWitt, P. Graham, E. Hobbs, M. Henderson, V. Butler.

THIRD ROW: M. Hook, N. Seely, H. Hoppes, I. Stevenson, H. Coffin, M. Deachman, T. Alley, O. Straley, D. McDaniels, S. Smith.

FOURTH ROW: M. Bannon, D. Smith, A. Parr, J. Bogue, R. Durham, C. Sink, G. Giselback, R. Bannon, H. Good, G. Fouch, M. Holiday.

IN our Freshman year, 1936-1937, our class officers were as follows: sponsor, Mr. Eastman; president, Harold Coffin; vice president, Carmen Reid; and secretary-treasurer, Juanita Engleman.

The senior class of 1937 sponsored our freshman initiation, and refreshments were served by the juniors. The refreshments consisted of Cocoa-Cola and candy bars.

While we were Freshmen, we had a theater party at the Ritz Theater in Tipton the first semester. We saw "Swing Time" starring Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire.

The second semester we had a wiener roast at the Tipton Park.

In October of 1936, our class participated in the Hallowe'en Festival sponsored by the seniors. Our side show was called "Doomed to Die."

In our sophomore year, our class officers were as follows: sponsor, Mr. Scott; president, Iva Stevenson; vice-president, Carmen Reid; secretary-treasurer, Juanita Engelman.

This year, our class appointed a new committee called the "Welfare committee". This committee consists of four class members who are: Mary Leachman, Harold Coffin, Norma Doggett, and Gladys Clem. Their duty is to send tokens of remembrance to sick or deceased members of our class or their immediate family, or any other welfare work we see fit to do. Maxine Whitehead was a member of this committee until her withdrawal from school: we appointed Norma Doggett to fill the vacancy.

Our school organized a Student Council this year, consisting of two faculty members, and a member from each class. We appointed Iva Steveson to represent our class.

We participated in the Hallowe'en Festival given in October, 1937, in the Windfall High School. Our performance was a "Wild West Show." In this we had a campfire scene, western songs sung with the accompaniment of Don Smith and his guitar, a solo whistled by Carmen Reid, and a bucking bronco scene with Myron Henderson acting as the bronco. We ran a very close race with the juniors for first prize, but, at the final count, we took second prize.

Each high school class is allowed one party a semester. For our first semester party, we had a skating party at the Tipton skating rink. An enjoyable evening was spent by all attending.

Since school started this year, two new students have enrolled in the class. They are Don McPherson, from Okmulgee, Oklahoma, and Murray Smith, from Detroit, Michigan. Frank Miller, who was formerly a member of our class, moved to Michigantown. As "Frankie" was a friend of everyone, we miss him very much. We now have forty-one students in our class.

As the year ended, we all came to the conclusion that it had been a most successful and happy one.

Myron Henderson

ON the morning of September 6, 1937, students from Curtisville, Hobbs, Leisure, New Lancaster, Point Isabelle, and Windfall arrived at the Windfall school building to begin their studious and social lives in Windfall High School.

To start the social year, we elected class officers who are as follows: president, Merl Hutto; vice-president, Ray Frazee; secretary-treasurer, Betty Jack; and the class sponsor, Miss Mitchell.

Our first social event was the freshman initiation on September 16, where the seniors took pride in officiating and the juniors served refreshments. We freshman hope that they enjoyed it very much.

The high school Hallowe'en Carnival took place October 27 in the school gymnasium where the freshman contributed "A Trip Around the World."

We, who are now looked upon as the "Green Freshmen", will show our upperclassmen that we are able to do the things that are, and will be, expected of us. Although we are now called the "Green Freshmen", we strive to make Windfall High School proud of the "class of 41".

FRESHMEN CLASS HISTORY

DAYBREAK

In my tent I lie a-sleeping,
Unconscious in my slumber deep,
The sun from over the horizon peeping
Arouses me from profound sleep.

The mist is rising from the top
Of the water, deep and cool,
The fish in their early feeding stop,
In the mosses, school by school.

The mist is wafted around my tent
In whirling eddies curled,
The morning breeze has kissed the cheek
Of flowers half unfurled.

The early morning Robin's call,
Bids me hasten to the stream
And I stumble out and view it all—
It seems like a beautiful dream.

Robert Hodson.

THE FRESHMAN'S CREED

I am a Freshie.

I am the youngest institution in the school and I am the oldest.

The school is my heritage when I come into it, and when I go, I leave it to the next generation of Freshies.

My mission is to leave the school a better place than I found it.

With my many small classmates, I can do this if the upper classmen do not impose too many handicaps upon me.

I want to be respected by the upper classmen.

I want to have a voice in school affairs.

I want my ability and intelligence to be recognized.

If the upper classmen will make my path easy now, I will help other
Freshies when I grow up.

I am the object of all jokes and wisecracks.

I am in everybody's way and jam the halls to capacity.

I am known to be terrorized by the "office".

I want to make the honor roll.

I always obey the teachers.

When I am a Senior I will act my age.

I shall carve my name on every desk.

I am the hope of the school.

I am the Freshie.

A HIGHER AIM

DO people pray intelligently? Do they pray for impossible things? I have never heard a person pray for a hardship or a hindrance. They always pray for benefit rather than hinderance to be overcome. You can learn better through the school of bitter experiences than to have everything perfect and go through life with no worry. The man who struggles up to the top by himself is, in all respects, superior to the one who has had a life of luxury with his inherited fortune lifting him up. A selfmade man will stay at the top long after the others have fallen.

His ideals are raised higher, his goal is higher, and his general aim is raised higher each time he comes into reaching distance of them. By overcoming obstacles in his path instead of taking the path of least resistance, he inspires confidence in himself and others below him. With this confidence he overcomes and shatters each blockade with a little more force and determination than the last.

PEANUTS and LOVE

I HAD just got my new position in the store where I worked. I now sold peanuts.

It happened just yesterday. I was sitting behind the counter, daydreaming about a pair of shining brown eyes and lovely dark hair. I hadn't had much experience in love except for the time I held Miranda's hand in church. Her round face was all "prettied up" in pink and red.

As I was thinking about the past, I seemed to hear some distant voice saying, "Nuts, nuts, I want some nuts". I just heard the last part of it. I jumped up and said, "Who called me a nut?" Just then I looked into the most beautiful, wonderful, brown eyes I had ever seen.

I stuttered and made funny noises, but finally made her understand that I was profoundly sorry.

She made her purchase and was gone like a floating vision. I looked down at a little white card which she had dropped. I picked it up and read, "Rev. Charles Tolle of the Quaker Church at 24th and Broadway Streets, Windfall, Indiana". I thought I'd go to church that night.

When I entered the holy doors of the church, I saw many familiar faces. I saw Phyllis Hobbs sitting on the front seat, Jim Sholty looking like a saint, and Virginia Hutto, Dorothy Thomas, and Wayne Meyer all praying together. Then I saw her, my dream girl. As I passed her going out the door after the wonderful sermon by Rev. Tolle, she asked me to take her home.

I helped her into my buggy and told the horse to trot along. I just couldn't think of anything to say. She said her name was Imogene Zehner. She cuddled up close to me and did I blush! I tried to think of some love speeches I'd heard Wayne Meyer reciting, but I couldn't think of any. She said, "Kiss me, Eddie." I said, "Well, it might scare the horse. He's not used to such things."

"Don't be silly," she cooed in my ear, so I leaned over and kissed her hand. She sighed and looked up at me, but I just stared at the horse. After a few minutes of silence, she said, "I know the loveliest spot for lovers." I said, "Well, er, er, well—what lovers?" "Why us, silly. Park right over there under that willow tree."

Seeing a sign by the tree, I read it aloud, "One hour parking."

"Oh dear, why do people have to make such laws," Imogene said. "Don't you think the moon is lovely? It looks as if some artist had painted it just for us, dear."

"Uh huh," was all I could say.

"You are the most arduous lover," she said. "What are you thinking about?"

By this time, the sweat had popped out on my forehead. I answered, "I was, er, just thinking what a—a—swell, er—swell horse I've got."

"Oh." She sounded disappointed. "I guess you'd better take me home."

SOFT BALL

Uⁿtil this year, our high school has had a baseball team. A new game known as softball had gained popularity among the surrounding high schools, so Windfall decided to try it instead of baseball.

The boys were new in the game so we could not expect too much from them. With our coach, Mr. Reid, the boys went on the field with great determination to win. Since they had not played this game before, the boys won few victories. They didn't give up trying.

In the future, we hope that Wood High School will have a softball team which can not be beaten.

BASKETBALL

LOOKING over the basketball season we see a number of defeats as well as few victories. In our games this year, we have had some "hard luck" with seemingly no one thing to allot it to. Of course, we must bear in mind that our season's schedule was far from an easy one, many of the towns being considerably larger than ours and blessed with larger players. But we will all agree that our team deserves credit for honest effort. Every boy has done his best and now we want to thank each of them.

W. H. S. will lose some of her best athletes this year, but we are looking to promising young material coming on to take their places in the following year. We are hoping that they will still strive for a bigger goal than was reached this year.

You Are the Fellows

You are the fellows who have to decide
Whether you'll do it or toss it aside.
You are the fellows who make up your minds
Whether you'll lead—or linger behind;
— Whether you'll try for the goal that's afar,
Or just be contented to stay where you are.
Take it or leave it, here's something to do,
Just think it over—it's all up to you!

Basketball Calendar

Nov. 5 The Dragons lost their opening game to Kempton by a score of 9 to 14.

Nov. 12 In a fast game with Tipton, the Dragons lost the game by a score of 16 to 38.

No. 19 Fairmount was "hot." Score—12 to 55.

Nov. 24 The Dragons were routed by the Jackson Township team, who seemed to be able to hit the basket from any angle. The Dragons were defeated 10 to 49.

Dec. 1 The Windfall team didn't seem to fit on the Delphi floor. They were defeated by a score of 5 to 63.

Dec. 3 Windfall lost a fast game to Burris by a score of 30 to 47.

Dec. 10 The Windfall boys played a good game but not good enough. Greentown won by a score of 32 to 13.

Dec. 17 The game with Sharpsville was very close, but they put over the necessary point before the gun went off, making the score in their favor 16 to 17.

Dec. 22 The Dragons were defeated by Alexandria by a score of 12 to 38.

Jan. 8 In the Big Tournament, Windfall played Prairie. It was a fast and close game, with a score of 10 to 20.

Jan. 14 In a fast game played on the Windfall floor the Dragons lost to Frankton by a four point margin, thus making the score 30 to 34.

Jan. 21 In a fast game with Sharpsville, the Dragons fought with fury with their old rival but they lost the game by a score of 44 to 25.

Jan. 28 The Tipton Blue-devils defeated the Windfall Dragons with a score of 34 to 19.

Jan. 29 The Windfall boys played a good game with Sheridan but came up with a losing score. The score was 57 to 14.

Feb. 4 WON OUR FIRST GAME: from Greentown.
The score was 27 to 21.

Feh. 11 The Prairie Aces won over the Windfall Dragons by a score of 33 to 13.

Feb. 18 The Pendleton Irish played a fast and furious game on the Windfall floor, winning over the Windfall Dragons 24 to 11.

Feb. 19 The Windfall team lost a fast game at Peru on Friday night February 19. Score was 30 to 14.

Feb. 26 The last game of the Dragons was played on the Windfall floor with Union. I went to press before this game was played. So here's hoping!

Compliment on Players

S-s-s-s-s-s-s—Bang! Windfall.
Then into the air the ball does go,
The team comes out all in a line
And every player is going fine,
Ready to do a swell night's work,
Never from W. H. S. to shirk.
First the ball's at the wrong end,
Then our players get it panned,
And right into the net it goes,
Which sure puts Sink on the tips of his toes.
For then is when we stand to yell,
And when we stop— who can tell;
Cause we could yell the whole night long,
Or merrily sing our High School Song.
There's our noble Captain Bob,
Always there right on the job.
And Clouser as center can not be beat,
He sure keeps the crowd upon their feet.
Alley is our guard and he's no joke
For the opposing team few baskets makes.
Langley is back from Kalamazoo,
And got right in on our team too.
He'd stay as long as he could. I guess,
But we're not sorry, nevertheless.
Then there's Tolle and Kemper, but these you know,
As forwards, they are one grand show.
Taylor is our new man's name.
In basketball, he's just won fame.
Our Coach is first rate;
He brings our boys right up to date.
Oh! I forgot to mention our subs,
I don't regard them as just mere "scrubs",
For Frazee and Smith, no better scrubs,
Whenever they're called—they're right-on-the-spot.
Now can you wonder why that we
Such sport in Basketball do see?
We all sure go, the teachers too,
And wear our colors forever be true—
"Yea Red,
Yea White."

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

THIS year we have a very efficient physical educational instructor, Miss Downs. Our high school physical education course, for freshman and sophomore girls, includes games, exercises, folk dancing, stunts, contests, and other related activities.

Periods are not only spent in activity but for discussions on cleanliness, honesty, good sportsmanship, health articles, and many topics of direct relationship to our physical and health courses.

While the weather was nice we took healthful hikes into the country. When the weather was unfit for out-of-doors play, we played in the gym.

Some of the games we play are: Dare Base, Master of the Ring, Black Tom, Chinese Tag, and many other healthful games. On Friday, we have a complete set of sitting-up exercises.

Each individual girl has the spirit of, "may the best team win" and "fair play."

It is our aim that each girl shall attain a better moral standard of living, and a finer, happier life.

THE BAND

A N essential part of the school is the band. Following the team, serving at home, sacrificing self in the interest of the school, the band is one of our organizations which deserves a great deal of praise. Although our band is not a large one this year, it is nevertheless capable of making melody upon demand, and our visitors have been impressed by the support which this worthy organization lends to the games. This year we hope to see them marching down the field in a blaze of sound and glory, exhibiting the crux of perfection in both harmony and marching technique. With an unexcelled director and plenty of support by the students, our band promises to go far. Although our drum major had to leave us last year we know we will have another good one this year. The band has won several trophies, but it is still striving for a higher goal.

JUNIOR PLAY CAST

The junior players under the direction of Miss Jeannette Leisure, presented a three act mystery farce, "The Panther's Claw", November 17th and 18th. The play was a dramatic success.

The characters standing are: Betty Jo Plummer, as Hope Fendwick; Wayne Meyer, as Jerry Freeman; Imogene Zehener as Elaine Standish; Mary Esther Hinds characterized Clifton King of the Federal Secret Service; Virginia Hutto, Clifton's wife; Edward Jack as the Spider. Seated are Ray Spitzmesser as Tony; Jean Walsh as Olive Dale; Dorothy Thomas was Edith Dale; and Phyllis Hobbs, alias Tillie Lish. Kenneth Cheever (not pictured) was the Panther.

LIBRARY

The library is under the direction of Miss Jeannette Leisure. She is aided by the staff which is as follows: Winona Weismiller, Waunetta Weismiller, Mary Alice Blessing, Jean Walsh, Gladys Clem, Eileen Hobbs, Virginia Butler, Juanita Engelman, Anna Mae Ressler, and the student director, Gene Graham. Librarians are chosen by the supervisor. The prerequisites are efficiency, courtesy, dependability, and a willingness to serve.

The paramount objective of the library staff is to guide each individual student to better reading. Many new fiction and reference books have been added during the last year.

SENIOR PLAY CAST

The Senior class presented the play, "For Pete's Sake", March 16 and 17. Under the direction of Miss Marguerite Mitchell, the play was a howling success.

The cast was as follows: Anna Ressler, playing as Pete's aunt; Martha Leavell, the darky cook; Paul Matchett as Dean of Elwood College; Bob Osborne—always in hot water—as Peter; Bob Coffin as Peter's pal; Glenn Ertle, Muggsy; Emily Conkling as a social climber; Virginia White, Peter's sweetheart; Mildred Fernung, Bill's (Coffin) sweetheart; Maxine Hinds as Muggsy's goddess; James Alley, a banker; and Don West, the poet of Elwood College.

ANEMONE STAFF

In answer to your request for an annual, we have tried to supply your wish by publishing the 1938 "Anemone". We wish to thank everyone who has contributed to the making of this year book. Without the support of the student body, the merchants, and the faculty, it would be quite impossible to have a year book for our school. One person alone in this world could accomplish little. So it is with the editing of a year book.

We gladly give the credit of publishing this annual to all the members of the class, who cooperated with the staff.

ART DEPARTMENT

This year, the art department has a new supervisor, Miss Mitchell.

The class worked with water color and pastel crayons the first semester. Their outstanding project was individual lineoleum-block Christmas cards. The outstanding project of the second semester was the making of grotesque and realistic masks.

As extra activities, they made posters for the Hallowe'en Carnival, the junior and senior plays, and signs for the basket ball score board.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

The Industrial Arts class was open to freshmen and sophomores. This class is a new branch of shop work for the first semester. The class is given in preparation for the second semester's work. A few of the projects were: bird houses, clock shelves, and book cases.

During the second semester, the class studied the fundamentals concerning tools and beginning exercises in woodwork.

COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

The Commercial Department is composed of classes in shorthand, typing, bookkeeping, general business, and business arithmetic. Under the supervision of Miss Juanita Hall, the students are learning the fundamentals of business.

Students who have satisfactorily completed all of these commercial courses can enter the business world with a fairly good background for business life.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

The Beginning Home Economics class of the Wood High School began the new school year with a new supervisor, Miss Rita Downs.

Officers are: president, Iva Stevenson; vice president, Evelyn Fernung; and secretary-treasurer, Imogene Kennedy.

They were taught the fundamentals of cooking the first semester. The second semester was spent in the making of different kinds of patches, button holes, seams, and hems.

Each girl has been benefited by this course.

STUDENT COUNCIL

THE purpose of the Student Council is to form a more perfect school, to insure a better relationship between the faculty and students, and to promote the general welfare of our community.

The council has all powers for regulating extracurricular activities, common sense conduct, and fundamental manners.

This council is composed of a member from each class, selected each year by popular vote of the class, and two faculty members chosen by the faculty.

— Winona Weismiller

CAN YOU IMAGINE

Miss Downs staying home on Sunday night to grade papers?
Miss Leisure as the girls athletic director?
The basketball team winning the sectional?
The junior class with plenty of finances?
The rooms at the right temperature?
The school really being on fire?
Mr. Owens not making any announcements in the assembly?
Arthur Clouser going to school a full year?
The time when Mr. Scott wore curls?
Leonard Nelson as a fast and furious debator?
Dorothy Thomas without her make-up?
Bob Osborne being bashful?
Imogene Zehner attending school on Monday morning?
Mr. Ragain playing "Swing Music"?
Silence in the assembly when the teacher is out?
Mary Esther Hinds without Charles Tolle?
Miss Hall's writing being legible?
Floyd Vanness without a chew?
Wilbur Legg in long pants?
No whistling in the halls?
And last, but not least, can you imagine this world without dear old Windfall High School?

ADVICE TO UNDERCLASSMEN

We, the departing paragons of the Windfall High School, leave to you, the underclassmen, this most excellent advice:

1. Always take two steps at a time. It helps keep that school girl figure.
2. Always contradict your teachers. It makes them respect you.
3. Always question your neighbor's economics recitation. It uses time and saves the rest of the class from the anxiety of reciting.
4. When speaking to a teacher never address him as "Mister": Always say, "Hi, Mug, how's tricks?"
5. Hum in an undertone in class. You'll be surprised at the disturbance it causes.
6. Drop chalk on the floor. Then there will be enough for everyone.
7. When passing someone, push him gently. It sweetens his disposition.
8. Take charge of the window shades. They make excellent playthings.
9. Trip a classmate who might be passing your desk. This promotes gracefulness.

If the students of W. H. S. follow this advice closely in the future, we are sure it will be a more pleasant place (for the students).

UNDERSTANDING

Do you sometimes find that the road is rough?

And the going hard and slow?

I traveled the same way my friend,
A long, long time ago.

Are you disappointed, tired, hurt,
And a bit too proud to cry?

Do you brush the tears away with a laugh?
Shake, buddy: So do I.

—Martha Iona Tolle.

THE SCHOOL, THE TEACHER, AND YOU

The new teacher said: I will tell you how I have marked you, and give you my reasons.

First—I do not mark upon how well you get your lessons: you go to school to grow. So I mark you on the effort you are making to build "character."

Johnny Jones, I have marked high because he asked the meaning of the word "syndicate." None of the rest of you knew. Why didn't you ask?

Emaline Dark got a high mark because her finger nails were clean—it is more important to have clean nails than it is to know Algebra.

William Rogers has a high mark because he didn't know who Napolean was—You didn't either—why did you not say so? To have an honest mind is better than a stuffed one.

During the day, six of you made me a promise. Only one boy kept his word—so Ralph Clark has a high mark. Doing what you say you will means more than being able to bound Indiana or tell the capital of Kanichatka.

In life's school, there are but two rules—Do what you think is right, and in case you don't know ASK.

Maybe you don't know Latin,
And Algebra just ain't for you,
History is just a back number,
And Geography a "Wandering Jew,"
Ask about things you don't know,
Keep sweet doing your best,
And when the last exam is over
You will be sure to meet the test.

—Rev. G. W. Winfrey

SUCCESS

It may not be an easy task,
And you just can't slide through,
For you will have to work to grasp
The ways to success for you.

Perhaps it will require more work
Than you wish to put in it,
But if you work, and do not shirk,
Then you'll receive a profit.

-- Betty Lou Mitchell

SUNSET

As I lay dreaming on a hill one day,
I glimpsed the last rays of the dying sun—
Nay! Not dying! It but went to rest,
Only to return upon the morrow's dawn
To light man's way upon this weary world;
Ever as man himself is fain to rest
When his day's labor is complete.

And even as I looked at it, it seemed
A group of brilliants in a golden set;
The clouds, all pink and purple and blue and gold,
Were like so many shining jewels
In the sun, their set of gold.

I thought of the great wealth of all mankind.
Was not this brilliant scene invaluable?
Could any hide it from another's sight?
No! It was there for all who would to see,
And only those who wouldn't were poor.

—Wilbur Legg

TEACHERLESS ASSEMBLY

A teacherless assembly as you all know—
You as well as I enjoy as much as a three foot snow,
But when the ink bottles begin to fly—
We think if we are hit we will surely die,
Then someone's shoe goes out of the window into space,
Only to hit some poor little kid in the face.

Paper wads, books, pens, nails, and even pears;
Scoot on the assembly floor all the way down stairs,
But when the teacher stepped in the door,
He stepped on a banana peeling and lit on the floor.
“I caught you,” the teacher said, James said, “yes;”
What happened next I will leave it to you to guess.

— Ray Spitzmesser

OPTIMISM IS NOT DEAD

How much too often have we heard it said that "Business has gone to the dogs", "Everything is rotten", and "It is needless to advertise"!

When you are ill and want to feel worse, concentrate on your pains; don't try a remedy. When business is bad, and you want to make it worse, moan about it; don't advertise. Nobody goes to an invalid for health hints; and nobody likes to buy from a merchant who advertises his troubles instead of his goods.

If you patronize the businesses and trades advertised in this book, you will be patronizing optimism. Because there are people who have faith in themselves and believe that the world will "wobble right", the ANEMONE doubly appreciates their patronage.

JOKES

- A railroad shopman had been drawn on a federal grand jury, and didn't want to serve.
When his name was called, he asked the judge to excuse him. "We are very busy at the shops," said he, "and I ought to be there."
- "So you are one of those men who think the place couldn't get along without you," remarked the judge.
- "No, your honor," replied the shop man, "I know it could get along without me, but I don't want it to find it out."
- "Excused," said the judge.
- M. Fernung: "Do you think it's right to punish people for things they haven't done?"
Mr. Hinds: "Why, of course not, Mildred."
M. Fernung: "Then please remove my demerit marks."
- Mr. Owens: "Why don't you answer me?"
Georgetta Jones: "I did, professor; I shook my head."
Mr. Owens: "But you don't expect me to hear it rattle away up here, do you?"
- They had lost their way in their new and expensive car.
Armetha: "There's a sign, dear; are we on the right road?"
With a flashlight he read: "To the Poorhouse."
James: "Yes, we're on the right road, but we didn't know it."
- Paul Matchett: "Sir, I want your daughter for my wife."
Mr. Blessing: "Young man, you go home and tell your wife that she can't have my daughter."
- M. Hughes: "How do you spell 'sense'?"
W. Weismiller: "Dollars and cents or horse sense?"
M. Hughes: "Well, like in 'I ain't seen him sense'."
- Mr. Sink: "Son, your school report shows a lot of very low marks. How about it?"
C. Sink: "Well, you see, Dad, everything's so high nowadays, I thought it was time some items were marked down."
- W. Langley sat down at a table at a smart restaurant and tied his napkin around his neck. The manager, scandalized, called a boy and said to him, "Try to make him understand as tactfully as possible that that's not done."
W. Meyers: (seriously to customer) "Shave or haircut, sir?"
- M. McCaskey: "I'm reading a mystery book."
Fred Walton: "Why, that looks like our household budget."
M. McCaskey: "It is."
- Miss Hall: "Why is your examination paper covered with quotation marks?"
Tom Alley: "Out of courtesy to the boy who sat in front of me."
Miss Hall: "And why all the question marks?"
Tom Alley: "Out of courtesy to the boy who sat behind me."
- Glen Ertle: I wish to marry your daughter, sir.
Mr. Fernung: Young man, do you drink?
Glen Ertle: Thanks a lot, sir, but let's settle this other thing first.
- Beggar: Have you got enough money for a cup of coffee?
Freshman: Oh, I'll manage somehow, thank you.
